MEXICO'S MAIN EVENT FOR THE ENERGY MARKET

Facing the New Challenges and Opportunities for the Energy Sector in Mexico

Düsseldorf (November 18, 2019) The 5th edition of Energy Mexico will take place January 28-30, 2020. The congress and exhibition brings together all sectors of the industry: oil, gas, power and renewables from different approaches such as technology, financing, operational and regulatory. The event serves as the B2B platform for networking activities and business meetings among the different players of the sector, the public and private sector, at a national and global level.

Energy Mexico 2019 counted 2615 professionals from 15 countries and 62 national and foreign companies that offered the most advanced operational, financial and technological solutions.

The event had the support of the Ministry of Energy for the fourth consecutive year and the participation of the international consulting firm Energy Intelligence Group.

Mexico's Minister of Energy, Rocio Hahle Garcia, delivered the opening keynote. The following agenda included sessions about Global strategic prospects, Exploration and Production, Natural gas, Energy for Transportation, Clean energies and information technologies.

The Mexican energy market is in a process of transition; greater competition, price volatility, additional regulation and difficulties in the supply in an environment of political uncertainty. The supply of services, products and financing are fundamental for the proper functioning of the market.

This situation leads to a demand for international services, solutions and technologies. Energy Mexico is organized by Tarsus and represented in Europe by their partner E.J. Krause & Associates.
